LONDON, September 3.

THIS morning, William Mildmay, Eſq; commiſſary from the crown of England to the court of France, ſet out on his return to Paris, where he will arrive with the utmoſt expedition.

We hear, that the cauſe ſo long depending between the hon. Mr. Anneſley, and the right hon. the lord Angleſey, is re-commenced, and will be heard next term, when it is thought a final iſſue will be made in that affair.

London, Sept. 7. We learn from Prague, that the electrical machines for diſſipating ſtorms and tempeſts, have performed in a wonderful manner there, ſo as to convince the moſt incredulous.

London, Sept. 12. We hear that ſome conſiderable changes and removals will take place before the meeting of the parliament.

London, Sept. 16. In a few days the hon. George Greenville, Eſq; governor of Barbados, will ſet out on his return to his government.

London, Sept. 19. 'Tis expected a proclamation will be iſſued out, the beginning of next month, for the ſitting of the parliament for the diſpatch of buſineſs in November next.

We hear, a fleet of 10 ſail of men of war are fitting out with all expedition for the Weſt Indies, to be commanded by Capt. Cockburn, who will hoiſt his pennant on board the Yarmouth, a 70 gun ſhip, as commodore; upon his arrival commodore Coats will ſail for England with the ſhips under his command, who have been on that ſtation for ſome time.

The ſhips lately taken into the ſervice of the Eaſt-India company are to carry forces for the farther protection of their ſettlements.

London, Sept. 21. Thurſday there was a great court and a council at Kenſington on affairs of importance.

We hear, that 16 men of war, of 60 and 70 guns, will be fitted up for ſea ſervice with all expedition.

London, Sept. 23. We are aſſured, that ſome land forces will embark on board the men of war fitting out for the Weſt Indies, which are expected to ſail about the beginning of October.

Mr. Timothy,

I AM inclin'd to think Mr. J. B. had little or no meaning in his reflections upon our neighbouring colony of Georgia in your laſt, any further than to furniſh himſelf with a preface ſuitable to his moſt extraordinary phenomenon, it is ſo well adapted to his ſubject, that we may be apt to think from the ſudden and happy effect the climate of that country had upon his wit and reaſoning, that it will yet become the ſeat of the muſes, But I cannot help admiring his induſtry more than invention in travelling that length, to ſupply the emptineſs of his brains—I fear he was as precipitate in paſſing his judgment as he acknowledges to be upon his travels he could not have conſider'd the ill tendency of ſuch reflections——I would therefore take this opportunity to ſhew what conſequence the ſettling of the colony of Georgia will be to the Britiſh government in general, all our plantations upon the continent, and particularly this province of South Carolina—The colony of Georgia will take in almoſt all the improvable lands upon the ſea-ſhore from the river Savannah to the cape of Florida, for to the ſouthward of the river St. Whans, tho' it contains a large ſpace of ground it is not worth cultivating but between thoſe two rivers, give me leave to inform you that for its ſituation, plenty of fine inlets, good harbours and rivers, and fertility of its ſoil, with every other conveniency, it is capable of being made as flouriſhing a province as any upon the continent, which I muſt be allow'd to know better than Mr. J.B as I have travell'd it all, indeed its allow'd to be ſo by every one who know any thing of it—Now can any one ſuppoſe that ſuch a tract of land every way ſo convenient, will continue uninhabited, whilſt ſome back lands of much leſs value, are at this time ready to ſet Europe by the ears, if it is not encouraged by the Engliſh we may depend upon it the French or Spaniards will ſoon have poſſeſſion there, and become more formidable rivals in our darling ſtaples rice and indico, perhaps in time work themſelves into the greateſt part of the provinces we now hold upon the ſea ſhore, in that caſe Carolina muſt doubtleſs be the firſt Were our enemies to poſſeſs Georgia, (which God forbid) and tho' we ſhould be able to prevent their coming further (which I doubt much) the charges of fortifying and protecting this province as a frontier, would inevitably, ruin us, and the hazards we are in from our inteſtine enemies, (without whom our province is worth very little) makes us the leaſt capable of being a frontier of any in America, or perhaps the encouragement our kind neighbours would give our ſlaves to deſert from us would ſoon rid us of that danger—As it is evident then this would be the caſe were the French or Spaniards to have footing once on the Florida ſhore I think inſtead of prejudicing people and depreſſing that colony if we conſult our own intereſt, and that of the government of which we are a part, we ſhould rather give it all the encouragement in our power even if they had occaſion for it, to ſupply them with as much money as we are able, becauſe the better they are fortified the more ſecure we live, for as I obſerv'd before there is very little land to the ſouthward of Georgia improvable at all, therefore the poſſeſſion of that colony will ſecure at once to us all that large ſpace of ground between the river St. Laurence and the cape of Florida, which is the beſt part of North-America and of the greateſt conſequence to a trading nation as we are, whilſt we preſerve the ſea ſhore, the few ſettlements the French have aback of us can never be of any great importance to us—and without that colony we muſt never think ourſelves ſafe or ſecure in the poſſeſſion of our American ſettlements particularly in Carolina—I am often ſurpriſed then to hear ſo many who pretend to be ZEALOTS for their country, run down this infant colony and as much as it's in their power fruſtrate thoſe great ends—I earneſtly wiſh to ſee a better harmony ſubſiſting between all our Engliſh provinces in America, the ſafety of them all depends greatly upon ſuch an union and good underſtanding, more eſpecially at this time, the beſt of our provinces can yet make but a poor defence ſeparately without the aſſiſtance of the reſt—And I cannot help thinking but men of that ſelfiſh ſpirit who would exclaim againſt every country but their own and all people but themſelves are ever the cauſe of ſuch unhappy diſcords.

I am,
Sir, Yours &c.

Charles-Town,
Nov. 29. 1754.
